Brief Bio for Jonathan Henderson.

Jonathan Henderson manages the Gulf Restoration Network's field operations in the Gulf region. By air, sea and land, he searches for, documents and reports pollution incidents such as leaking pipelines, well heads, platforms, and ongoing BP disaster impacts. He also documents the extensive O&G industry destruction of Louisiana wetlands. Jonathan is a founding member of the Greater New Orleans Water Collaborative of which he serves on the interim steering committee and as co-chair of the Advocacy working group. Jonathan is the Founding President of Vanishing Earth, Advocacy + Consulting+ Photography. Born and raised New Orleans, Jonathan grew up fishing and canoeing in Louisiana's bayous and creeks, visiting family along coastal Mississippi, and vacationing on beaches in Alabama and Florida. Jonathan has a Bachelor's degree in Theater from LSU, a Master's of Business Administration from the University of Louisiana at Lafayette, and a JD from Southern University Law Center.
