Harry C. LaBonde Jr., P.E.

Harry LaBonde serves as the Director of the Wyoming Water Development Office. His responsibilities include overall management of the agency which is charged with developing Wyoming's water resources. Specific agency tasks include state water planning, water conservation and rehabilitation projects, weather modification efforts, and the development of new water resource projects such as reservoirs, transmission pipelines and storage tanks.

Mr. LaBonde is a 1976 graduate of Colorado State University with a degree in civil engineering. Upon graduation, he was employed by a national consulting engineering firm in which he specialized in water and wastewater treatment projects. In 1991, he was given an opportunity to work in the public sector when he became the City of Riverton, Wyoming's Public Works Director. He continued his work in the municipal government sector when he was hired as the City of Laramie, Wyoming's Public Works Director in 1997 and later as its City Manager in 2000. From 2003-2012 he served as Wyoming's Deputy State Engineer and was then appointed to his current position in July of 2012.
