

Travis Deti, Executive Director

Travis Deti (DEE-tie) is the Executive Director of the Wyoming Mining Association (WMA). A native of Laramie, Deti holds a degree in Political Science from the University of Wyoming. Prior to joining WMA in 2011, he worked as legislative assistant and field representative to US Senators Craig Thomas and John Barrasso in both Washington, DC and Cheyenne focusing on national defense and veterans issues, foreign affairs, immigration, and governmental affairs. Deti is a former sergeant in the United States Marine Corps and is a veteran of Operation Iraqi Freedom. He was appointed to the Wyoming Veterans Commission by Governor Matt Mead in 2011, and is a 2016 graduate of Leadership Wyoming. He and his wife Kim live in Cheyenne and have two sons, John and Brendan.

About the Wyoming Mining Association

Founded in 1956, Wyoming Mining Association (WMA) is a statewide trade organization that represents and advocates for 26 mining company members producing bentonite, coal, trona and uranium. WMA also represents 120 associate member companies, one railroad, one electricity co-op, and 200 individual members

WMA promotes the mining industry by communicating with elected officials, regulators, educators, and the public in a credible way that encourages trust and confidence, and earns respect as a reliable source of information on issues pertinent to the industry.
