REED D. RUBINSTEIN BIOGRAPHY

Reed D. Rubinstein, who has more than 25 years of experience in regulatory, legislative, litigation and appellate advocacy, is a Partner in the Washington, D.C. office of Dinsmore & Shohl, LLP.

Reed has represented manufacturing, energy, technology, pharmaceutical, agricultural, land development, governmental and non-governmental organizations and individual clients in enforcement, rulemaking, Administrative Procedure Act litigation and policy matters before federal agencies, including the U.S. Office of Management & Budget Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs, the Departments of Justice, Energy and Agriculture, the Environmental Protection Agency, the Food & Drug Administration and the U.S. Congress; numerous state agencies; and in the courts. He has managed the regulatory and environmental aspects of significant corporate and real estate transactions such as a $5.4 billion New York City real estate sale, and counseled clients with respect to state and federal SEC, TSCA, FIFRA, REACH, FDCA, RCRA, Lacey Act and EHS compliance issues. He also has strong federal and state litigation and appellate experience, successfully trying tort, Administrative Procedure Act, environmental and construction cases and arguing appeals in Federal and State appellate and trial courts, administrative tribunals, and formal arbitration proceedings across the United States.

Reed joined Dinsmore after serving as Senior Counsel for Environment, Technology and Regulatory Affairs for the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. At the Chamber, he was responsible for developing policy and working with leading domestic and multinational companies, trade associations, Congress and federal agencies, and state and local Chambers of Commerce on critical regulatory, environmental, FDA and agricultural issues. Prior to joining the U.S. Chamber, he was as a shareholder in the Washington D.C. office of Greenberg Traurig, LLP, where he practiced environmental and administrative law, litigation, corporate and real estate law.

Reed is a former adjunct professor of environmental law at Western New England Law School, has published many articles and has spoken around the world on topics including regulatory trends, federal incentives for clean and alternative technologies, and occupational health regulations. Among other things, he is a recognized authority on the federal Information Quality Act having served as lead counsel in both of the leading federal appellate IQA cases, Prime Time International Co. v. Vilsack, ____ F. 3d ____ (D.C. Cir. 2010) and Salt Institute v. Leavitt, 440 F. 3d 136 (4th Cir. 2006).

Reed earned his J.D., M.A., and A.B. with High Distinction and High Honors from the University of Michigan. He is a member of the bars of the District of Columbia, Connecticut, Michigan, and Virginia and is admitted to practice in the U.S. Supreme Court, the U.S. Courts of Appeal for the District of Columbia and the Fourth, the Sixth, and the Eleventh Circuits, the Federal Court of Claims and many Federal District Courts.
