Natural Resources Committee Launches Mobile Website to Increase Accessibility

WASHINGTON, D.C. – House Natural Resources Committee Chairman Doc Hastings (WA-04) today announced the launch of a mobile-friendly Committee website that allows people to easily follow and interact with the Committee from anywhere.

“The launch of our mobile website is yet another way for Americans to engage with the Committee and uphold the Republican House Majority’s promise of openness and transparency in the way the 112th Congress conducts its business. The mobile website is a convenient, user-friendly, and interactive tool that allows people to follow the Committee’s activities and initiatives while on-the-go,” said Chairman Hastings.

The mobile website allows user to:

- Read along with witness testimony during hearings
- Find out what the Committee is doing for the week
- Monitor House Floor activity when Committee bills are being considered
- See the latest news from the Committee
- Track the Committee’s progress on key issues
- Easily interact with and contact the Committee
